TAKE THE ROCK TO THE RACK

NBA Shoot Out takes off from the free throw line and dunks over all other basketball video games with a thunderous two-handed jam. Nowhere will you find such realistic animations and crisp player control, not to mention offensive and defensive play sets and accurate play-by-play commentary. Add to that the actual NBA player rosters, team schedules, player stats, several playoff modes and numerous replay cameras. . . and you've got the complete package. All games claim to be the best, but NBA Shoot Out takes the rock to the rack and doesn't look back.

THE CONTROLLER

CONTROL SUMMARY

With Multi tap you can play with up to eight players.

  -  Select highlighted item/Cycle through options
- START Pause Game/Resume Game

See page 12 for instructions on the Alley-Oop and Mid-Air pass.

OPTIONS

You begin at the Options screen every time you play. There are three basic game modes: Exhibition, NBA Season, and Playoffs. NBA Seasons and Playoffs can be saved onto memory cards—Exhibition games cannot be saved.

The Game Options screen is explained below. The Trade Players screen is explained on page 18.

Press the D-Pad up/down to highlight your choice, and then press (X).

GAME OPTIONS

The Game Options screen allows you to tailor the game to suit your preferences and skill level.

- Press the D-Pad up/down to highlight your choice, and then press (X) to change the setting.
- When you're finished with the Game Options screen, press (A) to return to the setup screen

Game Mode

The two modes — Simulation and Arcade — determine the style of play. In Simulation mode, the game closely follows the NBA rules. In Arcade mode, the players don't suffer fatigue, they can't foul out of the game, and there are no substitutions.

Difficulty

We recommend that you start out on Rookie level and work up to All-Star. In the unlikely event that you master All-Star, you can set up games between the weaker teams and the tougher teams, or you make trades to strengthen your opponent or weaken your team.

Dunk Replays

It's hard to imagine anyone not wanting to see the awesome dunk replays, but if you want to get through the game without delay, you can turn off the Dunk Replays.

CPU Assist

The CPU Assist feature allows you to keep the game close. With CPU Assist ON, your shots are more likely to fall when you're behind by a few baskets.

Commentator

The commentator setting controls the game commentary. If you turn it OFF, the commentary will not play during the game.

SELECT TEAMS (EXHIBITION)

In Exhibition play, the Select Teams screen shows a comparison between the two selected teams in four important categories. The longer the bar, the stronger the team is in that category. The team with the green bar is superior in that category.

NOTE: for 3-Pointer and Field Goals, your best player's ability is indicated by the length of the shaded portion of the bar.

- To select a team, press the D-Pad left/right to highlight the home/visiting team, and then press up/down to cycle through the teams.

SELECT TEAMS (NBA PLAYOFFS/SEASON)

In Playoff and Season play, you use the Select Teams screen to select the teams you're going to control. All the games between teams that are not tagged will be played by the computer, and the results will appear in the standings.

- To select a team, press the D-Pad to highlight the team, and then press . Press  to un-tag the team.
- Press  to continue.

CONTROLLERS

After you've selected your teams and settings, you need to assign the controller(s) to the appropriate teams. All the controllers plugged into the PlayStation appear on the screen.

- Press the D-Pad left/right to assign that controller to either the home or visiting team.

For a computer controlled game, do not assign any controllers.

- Press (X) to continue.

STARTING LINEUPS

Before you take the floor, you have the opportunity to modify your starting lineup. Every player on the bench is available for every position, so you're not limited as to who can play center, guard, or forward. It's wise, though, not to put a six-foot guard in at center or forward.

Notice that the highlighted player's stats appear in the box at the bottom of the screen.

- To see a player's complete stats, press (O).
- To replace a player, press the D-Pad left/right to highlight the player, and then press the D-Pad up/down to cycle through the available replacements.
- To begin the game, press (X).

ON THE HARDWOOD

The controls, explained below, allow you to maneuver the players and execute offensive and defensive plays. Make sure to use the player attribute boxes at the top of the screen for a quick reference to the particular strengths and weaknesses of the player controlling the ball.

- The Red bar indicates the player's 3-Pointer accuracy.
- The Green bar indicates the player's Field Goal accuracy.
- The Blue bar indicates the player's energy level. Pressing R1 gives the player a brief Turbo Boost, indicated by the blue bar.
- The top letter indicates the offensive play.
- The bottom letter indicates the defensive play.

Running the Court

Whether you have the ball or not, you need to guide the player under your manual control. The player you control is marked with a circle. Controller One has a green circle, controller Two a red circle. To move your player, press the D-Pad.

Pressing R1 gives the player you are controlling a brief turbo boost. The light blue bar at the top of the screen indicates how much turbo he has left.

Passing

⊙ and ⊗ pass the ball. The player with the ball always passes in the direction he is facing. ⊙ executes a short pass, and ⊗ executes a pass to the player closest to the basket. In general, the ⊗ pass is a more dangerous pass, but even the ⊙ pass can be intercepted.

HINT: Before you pass the ball, make sure there's a clear path to the man you're passing to.

Alley-Oop

When you see your power forward raise his hand, and you hear the announcer say "alley-oop," press ⊙ to try an alley-oop.

Scoring

Use △ and □ to score. △ executes a jump shot. Hold the button down to jump, and then release the button to shoot. Your chances of hitting the shot are better when you release the ball at the height of your jump. The □ button attempts a dunk. Be careful with the dunk, though; the chances of committing an offensive foul are greatly increased when you lunge toward the basket with defenders in your way. If you press □ when you're not close to the basket, the player will attempt a jump shot.

Mid-Air Pass

When you go up for a shot, you can change your mind and pass the ball off instead of taking the shot. While still holding down △, press ⊙ or ⊗ to pass off to the nearest player.

Defending

Defense is man-to-man, and the computer controls the defenders not under your immediate control. To take manual control of the defender closest to the player that has the ball, press ⊗.

Shot Blocking

△ attempts a shot block. Of course, the defensive player must be in the proper position, and you must time the jump accurately, to succeed in blocking the shot.

Stealing

The  button checks the opponent and reaches for the ball. If the opponent has the ball, and the ball is within reach, this can result in a steal.

Play Calling

There are a variety of offensive and defensive sets available on the Time-out screen, accessed by pressing the Select button. At any given time, you can switch between offensive sets A and B, and defensive sets A and B. You need to go to the Time-out screen to change the sets. For more on the Time-out screen, see page 14.

When you're on offense, pressing R2 switches between offensive sets A and B. When you're on defense, R2 performs the same function for your defensive sets.

At the Free Throw Line

When you get fouled in the act of shooting, the computer takes you directly to the line. A cross appears on the screen to help you aim the shot. A cursor moves back and forth along the horizontal bar of the cross. Your goal is to stop the cursor directly in the center of the cross.

Press  to stop the cursor. If you wait more than ten seconds the computer will take over and attempt a shot, aiming at random.

When you stop the horizontal cursor, the vertical cursor begins moving. Stop the vertical cursor in the center of the cross, just as you did the horizontal cursor. If you succeed in stopping both cursors at or very near the center of the cross, the free throw will go in.

CALLING TIME-OUT

The Time-out screen and its subsequent options are available only in Simulation mode. During a time-out, you can substitute players, assign offensive and defensive sets to the A and B commands, and toggle on/off the three strategies explained below. For more on the offensive and defensive sets, see The Play Sets on page 19.

Double Team

With double team ON, two players cover the man with the ball. With double team off, it's strictly man-to-man defense.

Auto Switch

With Auto Switch ON, a computer-controlled player automatically covers the ball-handler when your player happens to lose his man or get "picked off." With Auto Switch OFF, you have to make defensive switches manually.

Crash Boards

With Crash Boards ON, your team is more aggressive in getting rebounds under the boards. One possible drawback to this is that some players might not get back on defense, or start their fast break, as quickly as they would with Crash Boards OFF.

GAME PAUSED

- To pause the game, press Start.

The pause game menu allows you to make changes to the game or to exit it altogether.

CONTROLLERS

The controllers screen functions just as explained on page 10.

CAMERA VIEW

There are six camera views, plus a manual camera view. You'll want to explore all the different views and decide which ones you like best.

GAME OPTIONS

The Game Options screen functions as explained on page 7.

REPLAY

The Replay option shows you the last few seconds of the action. You can even select a different camera view by pressing start. Press ⊗ for a list of Replay Camera options.

- Press R2/ L2 to play/rewind the replay.

EXIT GAME

Select Exit Game to return to the Main Menu without finishing the contest.

PLAYER STATS

At the end of a game, each players stats are available on the Player Stats screen.

- To cycle through the players, press the D-Pad left/right.
- To scroll through the stats, press the D-pad up/down.

NBA SEASON

The NBA Season replicates the 82-game 1995-96 schedule. At the beginning of the season, you're prompted to select a team to follow or control. Note that you need not actually play every game on the schedule — the computer will generate results for the games you choose not to play.

PLAY GAME

Select Play Game to move to the Team Match-Up screen, on your way to the arena.

SEASON STANDINGS

The Season Standings screen shows the win/loss records of all the teams, separated by Conference and Division.

- Press  $\otimes$  to switch between divisions.
- Press the D-Pad left/right to switch between conferences.
- Press the D-Pad up/down to scroll through the standings.

SEASON CALENDAR

The Season Calendar displays the daily match-ups around the league.

- Press the D-Pad left/right to cycle through the dates.
- Press the D-Pad up/down to scroll through the games.

NBA PLAYOFFS

You can set-up the playoffs in a variety of different ways. Once you select the settings and begin, the computer keeps those settings until the playoffs are finished.

QUARTER LENGTH

Just as in Exhibition mode, choose between 2, 3, 4, 6, 9, and 12 minute quarters.

NUMBER OF TEAMS IN PLAYOFFS

Here you're essentially determining how many playoff rounds there will be by selecting the number of playoff teams. If you choose only 4 teams, the first round is the semi-finals, and the second round is the finals. 8 team playoffs starts with the quarter finals, and 16 team playoffs (the actual NBA number) starts with an abbreviated first round series.

SERIES LENGTH

There are three different series length choices: Single Game, 3,5,5 and 5, 7,7. The abbreviated first round series does not apply to Playoffs that start with four teams.

TRADE PLAYERS

Trades are conducted on a one-for-one basis. At the beginning of the trade, you must select a player to be traded. After you select the player, you're prompted to select the player he'll be traded for.

- Press the D-pad left/right to cycle through the teams.
- Press the D-Pad up/down to scroll through the player roster.
- Press (X) to select the highlighted player.

Once you select a player to be traded, the league rosters appear on the right side of the screen. Find the player you want to trade for just as you found the player to be traded, and then press (X) again. The two players switch rosters.

SAVE SEASON

You'll need to save your season onto a memory card if you want to return to it. Follow the on-screen prompts to save your season, and make sure you write down the number of the saved season if there is more than one saved season on the card.

QUIT SEASON

Select this option to return to the Season menu.

THE PLAY SETS

The following sets can be selected in Simulation mode by calling Time-out.

Offensive Sets

The five offensive sets are common to most NBA teams. When you're running an offensive set, the players run through established routines, but it's up to you to execute the plays with accurate passing and ball-handler control. The effectiveness of each set is dependent in part on the speed and skills of individuals on your team.

BOX

This is your basic NBA offense. The center and power forward post up under the board, and the small forward takes the high post. Here, you're looking for an easy field goal with good offensive rebound possibilities and the freedom to get back on defense.

INSIDE TRIANGLE

Here the center and the point guard play the perimeter, while the other three guys set screens for each other in the key to free up an open shot or a dunk.

OUTSIDE TRIANGLE

More open than the Inside Triangle, here you have three players rotating on the perimeter and the shooting guard criss-crossing the paint for improved chances of an open jumper.

HI-LO POST

A standard perimeter offense, the Hi-Lo post positions the center hi and the power forward lo, with the other three men moving back and forth along the perimeter. This creates a wide area for ball movement and, ideally, a lot of good passing and shot opportunities.

3 POINT PLAY

Best used when you have a team with good three point shooters, this set creates wide-open spacing, with three to four players on the perimeter. This is perfect for draining three-pointers and getting back quickly on defense, but not for offensive rebounds.

Defensive Sets

Both sets make use of man-to-man ball pressure in the hopes of making a steal, intercepting a pass, or otherwise forcing a turnover. The key difference comes in the coverage of the inbound pass.

FULL COURT PRESS

Here, both the inbounder and the ball-handler are pressured. You might get a five- or ten-second violation or a quick turnover. Coaches often use a full-court press when their team is losing and they want to force a change in momentum.

HALF COURT PRESS

This is your standard defensive set, which allows the offense to take the ball into the front court before man-to-man pressure is applied. Players don't tire as quickly, and it's harder for the offense to get a cheap basket...but you won't come up with many backcourt steals.
